SUBJECT MATTER

The Journal of South Pacific Law considers submissions that deal with any aspect of law in, or of special relevance to, the South Pacific islands region. Submissions that primarily deal with other countries will only be considered if the author makes it clear how the content of the article relates to the legal, social or political environment in the South Pacific islands region.

CATEGORIES FOR SUBMISSIONS

The Journal of South Pacific Law publishes submissions in 7 categories:

- Refereed articles
- Comments
- Case notes
- Reviews (Book reviews and conference reports)
- Student papers
- Conference papers
- Technical reports and papers

Refereed articles are blind refereed by at least 2 referees. Submissions should normally not exceed 10,000 words.

The comments section is for shorter pieces that comment on recent developments in South Pacific law or other current affairs topics that fall within the scope of the journal. Submissions are refereed by at least 2 referees. Submissions should normally not exceed 6,000 words.

Case notes and reviews are refereed by at least 2 referees. Submissions should normally not exceed 3,000 words.

Student papers are papers that have been prepared by students and are refereed by one referee. Submissions should normally not exceed 10,000 words.

Conference papers are papers that have been presented at conferences. They are not refereed. Submissions should normally not exceed 10,000 words.

Technical reports and papers have been prepared for clients and are published with their written consent. They are not refereed. Submissions should normally not exceed 10,000 words.

Submissions in all sections are expected to comply with the style guide provided below.
STYLE GUIDE

English

The Journal of South Pacific Law uses U.K. English (e.g. ‘centre’, ‘colour’, ‘recognise’, ‘travelled’, ‘offence’). Authors should take care to avoid U.S. spellings of words (e.g. ‘center’, ‘color’, ‘recognize’, ‘traveled’, ‘offense’).

Fonts and headings

- Articles should be in Times New Roman, 12-point font.
- Titles should be in full capitals, bold and centred 16-point font.
- Author’s names should be in small capitals and centred 14-point font.
- Level one headings should be in small capitals and bold 14-point font.
- Level two headings should be in bold 12-point font.
- Level three headings should be in italic 12-point font.

Referencing

Referencing follows the referencing conventions adopted by the University of the South Pacific School of Law. These conventions are adopted from the Australian Guide to Legal Citation, with some minor variations for referencing Pacific material and cases reported on PacLII or other LIIs.

A summary of the format for referencing different sorts of material is provided in this document. For further information on style, or for matters that are not covered in these guidelines, authors should refer to the Australian Guide to Legal Citation.

References should be incorporated as footnotes, with the full reference provided the first time a source is cited.

Cross references should avoid Latin. To refer to a previous note use the following format:

Christopher Weeramantry, above n 2, 54.

Footnotes should primarily be used to include references. Long discussions in footnotes should be avoided.
Single quote marks should be used to mark short quotes. Long quotes should be indented, but font size should not change from the normal text.

Exact page numbers or paragraph numbers should be used when page numbers of paragraph numbers have been provided in the original source. Some judgments published online (and other online sources) contain numbered paragraphs. If these are provided these should be used. If these are not provided then no exact page number of paragraph number needs to be provided.

HOW TO SUBMIT

All submissions should be submitted via email as word documents. Footnotes should be inserted using the insert footnotes function of word. Submissions in all categories should be emailed to the Editors in charge.
